X-ray Information

There are many types of x-rays (also called radiographic studies). Radiographic studies are evaluated by a radiologist, who then dictates a report about their findings. It is recommended that you always obtain a copy of the radiology report for your records. Call the healthcare facility and ask for the radiology file room to request a copy of the radiology report.

If you need to obtain your x-rays, call the healthcare facility and ask for the radiology file room. Request your x-rays to be pulled so that you can pick them up. Ask to have a copy of the x-ray report included. Your will be asked to provide your name, date of birth, date of the x-ray, and medical record number (if you have it). You may be asked to sign a release form when you pick up the x-rays. If you are picking up x-rays for a family member, you may be asked to show identification and have written permission from the patient to pick up the x-rays.
